About the CPS

The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) wrote this plan.

The Crown Prosecution Service (sometimes called the CPS) looks at the evidence from the Police when they think a crime has happened.

We work in England and Wales.

We look at evidence to decide if someone should go to court.

Evidence is all the information about the crime.

Sometimes we decide what crime the person should be charged with.

We give information and support to victims and witnesses.

About this Plan

A law called the Equality Act (2010) says organisations must:

- give everyone the same chance to do things

- give people any extra help they need to have the same chances as other people.

The law says people must not be treated worse because of:

- age

- race

- being a man or a woman

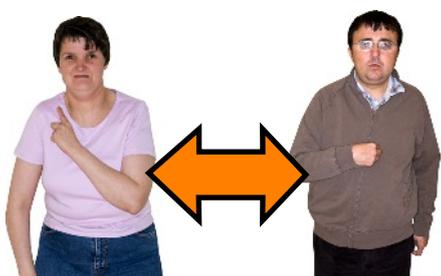

- religion or belief

- disability

- being lesbian, gay or bisexual

- being born as one sex and wanting to live as the other sex. For example a person who looks like a man may feel inside like a woman

- women having a baby or women just after they have a baby.

This means we must think about people who work for us, and people who use our services and:

- stop discrimination and harassment

- give everyone the same chance to do well

- help different groups work well together.

This is our 3 year plan for:

- equality – making sure we treat everyone fairly

- diversity – understanding everyone is different and making sure they can work for us or use our services

- inclusion – making sure everyone has the chance to be included in our work and services.

Why we need this plan

1. People are changing

We are working with more:

- older people

- LGBT people

- young people

- people with disabilities

- people from different races and religions.

We must give everyone the support they need.

2. Crime is changing

- crimes are getting more complicated and we need to support victims of sexual abuse, online crime and fraud

- some groups are more likely to be victims of hate crime than others. We need to stop people getting away with this

- there are more international crimes that involve people in lots of different countries.

3. We want people to trust us

- some groups of people do not trust the Criminal Justice System. They think we will not treat them fairly

- we need to be better at supporting people with learning disabilities, people with autism and people with mental health issues when they do a crime or are victims of crime.

4. Society is changing

- there are lots of new groups of people and communities. We need to involve them in our work

- we are all using technology more. We need to use it to support victims and witnesses.

What we want to do

There are 4 main things in our plan.

1. To make sure the public trust us

We always try to find out what the public think.

But some communities still do not trust us.

We will try to help all communities trust us by:

- linking with national organisations to look at how crime affects different groups of people

- finding new ways to involve young people

- finding key people who can help us work with local communities

- Local Scrutiny and Involvement Panels involving different groups of people in their area.

We will make sure everyone thinks about including people by:

- working with local communities and making sure lots of different people work for us

- supporting staff to get involved with their local communities

- looking at ways to work with volunteers

- having better national and local plans about involving communities

- having better ways to feedback what people say to help us plan our work.

Some examples:

- in Birmingham we worked with Muslim Women's groups to explain how we deal with hate crime

- in the North West of England we helped people with learning disabilities understand how to report crimes and what support they can get.

2. To help people who work for us do really well

We already have lots of different people working for us. We want to make sure we have staff from the same groups as the people in the communities we are working with.

We will check that everyone has the same chance to work for us by:

- having more senior staff with disabilities and from BAME groups

- keep doing better than other organisations at employing women and LGBT staff

- making sure all parts of the CPS have plans to have staff from the same groups as the people in the communities they work with

- checking we have up to date information about things like age, religion, race, disability or gender of people who work for us

- making sure we understand how things like gender identity and social background can affect people at work.

We will support lots of different people to work for us, stay in their jobs and do well by:

- making sure our managers understand how to include different people and treat them fairly

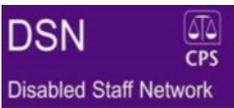

- making sure everyone who works for us knows discrimination, bullying and harassment are wrong

- stopping treating some people who work for us worse than others

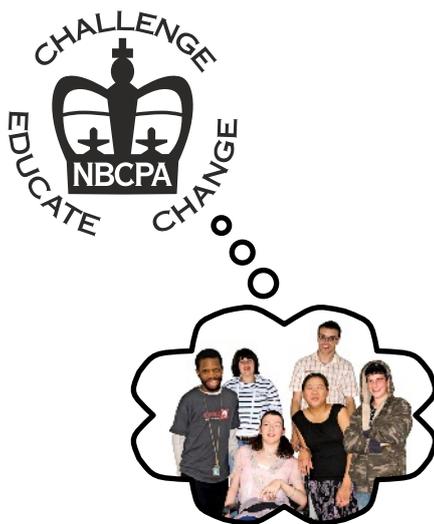

- supporting our staff to check if plans or ways of working treat some people less fairly than others.

Some examples:

- Our Disabled Staff Network helps and supports people with disabilities who work for the CPS.

- The National Black Crown Prosecution Association supports us to think about working with different groups. In 2017 they helped everyone think about Mental Health and how to support people at work and at home.

3. To do really good casework

It is our job to do really good casework. This means collecting information and deciding whether a case should go to court or not.

We will make sure people can see and understand the decisions we make by:

- checking our decisions to make sure we do not treat some people less fairly than others

- making sure our decisions keep to the Equality Act

- talking to local community groups about how we decide things

We will work with local communities to make sure we do really good casework by:

- collecting better information about victims and witnesses to check if we discriminate against any groups

- looking at how Local Scrutiny and Involvement Panels can help us do better casework

- setting up new ways to ask people what they think

- working with mental health services to understand how crime affects victims and people accused of a crime.

Some examples:

- in Gateshead we met people from the Jewish Community to understand how hate crime affects them.

- we will be working with advocates from the Gypsy, Roma and Traveller Community about support for victims and witnesses. We hope this will help more people report crimes.

4. To check how well we are doing

We will know our plan is working if:

- more people trust us

- more people are happy with the work we do

- our decisions are fair and do not discriminate

- people who work for us are happy in their jobs

- our staff come from lots of different groups and communities

- all our staff are treated fairly

- communities and our staff help us do things better.

The CPS Board and senior managers will check this plan.

We will also ask people we work with to tell us if we are doing the things we should.

We will report to the board every 6 months.

What the words mean

Advocate

Advocates support you to speak up, or they might speak up on your behalf if needed.

Charge

When the police or CPA accuse someone or say that they think they did a crime.

Criminal Justice System

The police, courts, probation service and prisons.

BAME

Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic people.

Bisexual

Bisexual people are attracted to both women and to men.

Discrimination

When someone treats you worse than other people because of who you are.

Evidence

Evidence is all the information about the crime.

Gay

Gay men are attracted to other men. Gay women are attracted to other women.

Gender identity

Whether you see yourself as a man or a woman.

Harassment
